Commentary

Globally, stockmarkets have been very weak recently as investors' confidence in the authorities' ability to cope has fallen. However, significant parts of the global economy are still growing strongly and, in aggregate, cash levels held means that the corporate sector is very healthy.

A takeover approach for Autonomy provided the opportunity to take profits there and re-invest the sale proceeds in the shares of some companies which had fallen heavily in the market sell-off.

It appears that the stockmarket is being even more inefficient and indiscriminate than usual and we are increasingly excited by the number of opportunities becoming available at attractive valuations.

Higher

What type of funds are in this risk category?

These are specialist equity funds that focus on set geographical regions or a particular type of share e.g. shares of smaller companies or those that conform to certain criteria.

What is the risk rating?

- › These risk ratings have been developed by Prudential to help provide an indication of a fund's potential level of risk and reward based on the type of assets which may be held by the fund. Other companies may use different descriptions and as such these risk ratings should not be considered as generic across the fund management industry.
- › We regularly review our fund risk ratings, so they may change in the future. If, in our view, there is a material change in the fund's level of risk, for example due to a significant change to the assets held by the fund or in the way the fund is managed, we will provide information on the new risk rating. We recommend that you make sure you understand the risk rating of any fund before you invest. You will find this information at www.pru.co.uk/factsheets
- › You should also consider discussing your decision and the appropriateness of a fund's risk rating with an adviser.
