Commentary

UK equities fell in the third quarter as concerns about global growth and the European sovereign debt crisis escalated, weighing on market sentiment.

As volatility subsides we expect our focus on company fundamentals to reassert itself. The most significant detractors from relative returns over the quarter were stock selection in the industrial engineering sector and an overweight position in industrial metals & mining.

Stock selection in the general retailers sector and an overweight in pharmaceuticals & biotechnology were among the positive contributors. At the stock level, the fund was hurt by its overweight position in Ferrexpo, a mining company specialising in iron ore, which fell on concerns that slowing global growth may weigh on commodity prices and demand. An overweight position in Bodycote was also detrimental as the thermal processing supplier received broker downgrades citing its high level of operational leverage.

Positive stock-level contributors included an overweight position in clothing retailer Next, which raised its full-year earnings forecast and said that it expects the difficulties facing retailers this year to ease in 2012. An overweight position in AstraZeneca was also beneficial as the pharmaceuticals company was sought for its defensive qualities.

What type of funds are in this risk category?

What is the risk rating?

- › These risk ratings have been developed by Prudential to help provide an indication of a fund's potential level of risk and reward based on the type of assets which may be held by the fund. Other companies may use different descriptions and as such these risk ratings should not be considered as generic across the fund management industry.
- › We regularly review our fund risk ratings, so they may change in the future. If, in our view, there is a material change in the fund's level of risk, for example due to a significant change to the assets held by the fund or in the way the fund is managed, we will provide information on the new risk rating. We recommend that you make sure you understand the risk rating of any fund before you invest. You will find this information at www.pru.co.uk/factsheets
- › You should also consider discussing your decision and the appropriateness of a fund's risk rating with an adviser.
